Feast of Music in Store for Carmel

The coming fall and winter holds large promise of activity in local musical circles. Great painters, noted authors have come to Carmel for many years, but musicians—seldom. This has been partly due to the fact that we have had no suitable hall, no piano, and not enough people here with a real musical appreciation. Of late there has been more and more complaint as to our lack of a musical atmosphere. It is a long and expensive trip to San Francisco to hear any of the great artists. We are beginning to want them to come to us instead.

It was to give to this entire peninsula the opportunity of hearing the best, and for less than metropolitan prices, that citizens of Carmel and Monterey have guaranteed to back the enterprise financially. They have now completed their plans and are formally announcing the following concerts:

On October 24, Florence Macbeth, leading dramatic soprano of the Chicago Grand Opera Company, will appear in concert. She has sung most of the Grand Opera roles, including "Martha," "Ophelia" in Hamlet, "Gilda" in Rigoletto, and "Lucia."

The second concert will occur in November. It will be given by a trio, consisting of Louis Persinger, Marion Davies and a noted accompanist. Persinger was formerly concert-master of the Berlin Philharmonic, which was probably the greatest musical organization in the world, and now occupies that same position in the San Francisco Symphony of which Alfred Hertz is director.

Toward the end of January, Arthur Schnabel, the celebrated Vienese pianist will appear. Of all the pianists appearing before the public today, probably half are pupils of Leschetizky. Of this number there is probably but one who is a reincarnation of the great master, himself, and that is Schnabel. This is partly accounted for by the fact that the latter studied with Leschetizky since he was five years of age.

Schnabel visits all of the large cities of Central Europe each year and has been soloist in orchestras conducted by Richard Strauss, Felix Weingartner, Gustav Mahler and many of the other great orchestra leaders. He is said by one critic to be the foremost living interpreter of Beethoven and Brahms.

Irene Pavloska needs no introduction to the people of Carmel, who will be delighted to learn that she is to form the fourth attraction, appearing here some time in February.

Altogether it is a very delectable feast of music that our public-spirited citizens have furnished us and can we be so unappreciative as not to respond with our enthusiasm, our boosting, our dollars? The concerts are to be in the Monterey Theater which is to have a new system of heating installed and made comfortable for the winter. The season tickets are to be $5.00 and will include four concerts. The net proceeds are to be given to charitable institutions on the Peninsula.

Prominent women around here are to be patronesses and the concerts will probably be popular socially as well as artistically.

It is said that several projects vital to the interests of Carmel are being held in abeyance for want of some assurance that certain public improvements will be made, amongst other things a better sewer system, street improvements in north Carmel and proper drainage of storm waters.

E. J. Flanders, property-owner of Carmel, has left for his home in San Jose, after a very delightful vacation here. His daughter, Miss Edith Flanders, teacher in Los Gatos and Miss Berdrow of the Sunnydale schools, were also in the party.

Statement Concerning Status of Member of Carmel Board

To the Voters and Taxpayers of Carmel:

The City of Carmel-by-the-Sea is now facing a serious crisis: the questions under consideration are such as affect every taxpayer and every voter of Carmel; and no one of these should allow his opinion to be influenced by anything less than a thorough and honest examination of the facts.

A committee of property holders has been organized to assist in adjusting these vexed questions, in the hope of establishing a more peaceful working basis for the affairs of the city. The reason for such an organization is—that the taxpayers and voters of the City of Carmel-by-the-Sea do actually constitute the city, and are personally and collectively responsible for the proper conduct and expenses of that city. They are entitled to a fair and reasonable fulfillment of their requirements and wishes, as expressed by vote; to be executed in accordance with the laws governing a city of the sixth class by the trustees duly elected to such service.

The members of this committee now find that a grave doubt exists as to the legal status of our present Board of Trustees, due to an unwarranted struggle for a majority vote upon said board. The committee is advised by two attorneys in good standing that this doubt is such as to seriously impair the usefulness of the board. Advice of counsel other than that of our city attorney was obtained for the reason that, at a recent meeting of the Board of Trustees, a request from property holders and one member of the board that the city attorney be allowed to advise them as to the existence of a vacancy upon the board, was refused; and because the vote which made that refusal possible was the vote of the trustee whose place upon the board was, and is, in question. More than this; it has since developed that the opinion of the city attorney was adverse to the position which Mr. Maxwell and Mr. Newberry took in claiming that there was at that time no vacancy upon the board, and there is little room for doubt that they knew what his opinion was when they refused to allow him to express it for the benefit of the taxpayers.

On Friday, August 25th, at the Special Called meeting held at the home of Trustee Kibbler, ostensibly for the purpose of fixing the tax rate for this year, but really for the purpose of maintaining Mr. Newberry's solid majority on the board, a motion to declare the office of Trustee Maxwell vacant and to appoint William L. Maxwell to fill the vacancy was made and carried, by Trustee Newberry and Trustee Parkes alone, over Trustee Kibbler's "No." The legality of this Special Called meeting is now in question. Counsel advises that the notices of a Special meeting must specify all business to be transacted thereat.

It is to be remarked that notice of this Special meeting was duly served on Trustee Maxwell at 10:30 p. m. on the evening of the 24th of August, while the telegram sent to Trustee Reardon was sent as late as 2:55 p. m. of the 25th, and reached him too late to have been of any service had he been able to attend. Both Trustee Reardon and Trustee Kibbler were ill at the time of this Special meeting.

In view of all these facts, the Committee has waited upon the President of the Board of Trustees, Perry Newberry, with a letter from Attorney Mack stating that in his opinion the Special meeting in question is not legal. And the committee has asked for the sake of better feeling between the trustees and the people of Carmel, and to save the people much trouble and expense, that the resignation of Trustee Maxwell be accepted, and after the thirty days required by law have elapsed a special election be held to fill

Theater Directorate Elects Officers

The regular meeting of the board of directors of The Forest Theater was held last Monday evening in the office of the Carmel Development Co. The following officers were elected: President, Edward G. Kuster; vice-president, Dr. Alfred E. Burton; secretary, Susan C. Porter; treasurer, William T. Kibbler; historian, Herbert Heron.

The play committee comprises Mrs. Porter, Even R. Mosher, Herbert Heron, E. G. Kuster and Blanche Tolmie.

It is the intent of the directors to encourage play writing competition even more this year than last and to cooperate with the Pasadena Drama League in exchange of plays submitted.

Several needed amendments to the by-laws were discussed and will be posted on the theater's bulletin board for the required time before being voted upon by the directors. The chief of these concerns the abolition of the play committee, their duties to be assumed by the board as a whole.

Dr. Sarah McAuley Meets Untimely End

An unusually shocking accident occurred on Carmel Hill about midnight Saturday, as a result of which Dr. Sarah Hatton McAuley lost her life. Mrs. McAuley was crowded off the road by an unknown driver, who, according to report, was under the influence of liquor. The machine was overturned with Mrs. McAuley and two children beneath it. Burdette Stoney and Ruel King came along in time to rescue the injured and to take Mrs. McAuley to the hospital, where she lived but an hour.

Mrs. McAuley was well known and universally beloved, and many will grieve at her passing. She was the wife of Dr. Martin McAuley of Monterey, and a member of the Hatton family of Carmel Valley, where she was born and raised. The funeral was held Tuesday morning and was largely attended. Rev. F. G. Williams of All Saints' Episcopal Church of Carmel officiated.

Women's Clubs Met in Quarterly Session

The County Federation of Women's Clubs met at Arts and Crafts hall in quarterly session last Saturday afternoon.

Mrs. Sydney Yard had charge of the program, which consisted of readings by Mrs. Susan Porter, and vocal music by Miss McDonald of Washington. Interesting reports were given by the officers and a talk by Miss Rogers about Asilomar. She is from Los Angeles and represents the Y. W. C. A.

King City is to be the meeting place for November

Contractor Ruthven Gets Sixty Days

At last week's meeting of the city board of trustees Trustee Reardon made a report on the Newbegin fire extinguishers, but no action was taken.

C. S. Olmstead of the Monterey County Water Works was present and held an informal discussion with the board regarding water supply of this city. He stated that as soon as the larger mains for the fire hydrants are called for they will be supplied, and that the old mains would be replaced by new pipe throughout the city as soon as possible.

Contractor Sidney Ruthven was granted an additional sixty days to complete the work on Ocean avenue.

Business Suspended As Mark of Respect

Last Friday morning the funeral services for Mrs. Lucretia Horn were held in the Carmel Methodist Church. Rev. Fred Sheldon conducted the services, assisted by the ladies of the Grand Army, and the choir furnished the music. The pall bearers were Robert G. Leidig, John C. Mikel, William T. Dummage, Perry L. McDonald, August Englund, R. Stewart. Interment was at Monterey cemetery. The business houses of Carmel closed their doors for an hour out of respect to the memory of Carmel's oldest pioneer.

Campbell Okehs Board and Maxwell

Carmel, Cal., Sept. 19, 1922

Editor, Pine Cone:

Dear Sir:

My opinion has been asked as to the legal status of the present Board of Trustees of this city.

Permit me to say that there is no question regarding the legality of the present board, and that no attorney in possession of the facts would raise such a question. I have no hesitancy in saying that the present Board of Trustees is in every sense of the word a legal body.

The question has been raised also as to the legality of Mr. Maxwell's seat upon the board—but that is wholly a different question. Whether Mr. Maxwell is legally a member of the board or not does not affect the legality of the board itself. It is admitted that Mr. Maxwell is a trustee de facto, and as such his acts are binding upon the city.

It is my opinion that a vacancy was created when Mr. Maxwell overstayed his leave of sixty days from the state, but that this situation was remedied by his reappointment.

Sincerely yours,
Argyll Campbell,
City Attorney

THE SAN FRANCISCO STAGE GUILD.

In no sense a "Little Theater," this new organization is to be an "institution of the theater, an adult theater, with all the by-products, and looking to a repertory theater." So says Director Sam Hume, who, for many years, has had charge of the activities of the Hearst Greek Theater at Berkeley.

Many prominent and wealthy men and women of San Francisco are endorsing and backing the venture. They have acquired the Plaza Theater, formerly the Savoy, on McAllister street and have established a School of Arts to be conducted by the Guild in connection with the playhouse. Maurice Brown and Ellen Van Volkenburg have been chosen as directors of the latter. Aside from Mr. Hume, others promipent in the new organization are Jessica Colbert, general manager; Irving Pichel, producing director; Everett Glass, Rudolph Schaeffer and Norman Edwards.

Of its ideals Mr. Hume says: "As soon as we have gained our strength, we will strive to make it a place where the various artists whose work is in any way associated with the theater may have their efforts come to fruition under conditions as nearly ideal as possible. * * * I love San Francisco and I would like to help create a genuine institution of the theater serving the city. The success of such an institution depends on the co-operation of sympathetic and intelligent people who will feel that this is their theater."

"RIVOLI," OLD "TIVOLI"

Ferris Hartman and Paul Steindorff have taken over the Rialto Theater on Market, near Seventh in San Francisco, and after remodeling and refurnishing it will open next month as the Rivoli Opera House with a season of comic opera revivals. Lillian Glaser will be prima donna with the new organization. She occupied a similar position with the De Wolf Hopper and Francis Wilson recent revival of comic opera in the East.

It is the plan of the producers to allow the public to select the operas to be produced. It will be done by popular vote.

DORIA FERNANDA AT THE ST. FRANCIS

Carmelities who were fortunate enough to greet Doria Fernanda when she was here recently as Mrs. Charles H. Stanton's guest, will be interested to know that she is giving some very successful recitals in San Francisco. Last Tuesday evening she gave a diversified program in the Colonial ballroom of the Hotel St. Francis, with Benjamin Moore as accompanist.

MEIGHAN IN "MANSLAUGHTER"

Thomas Meighan is the star in the recent film production of Alice Duer Miller's absorbing story of the modern jazz age, "Manslaughter," which attracted so much attention last year from Saturday Evening Post readers.

The original hero of Owen Wister's novel, "The Virginian," recently dropped dead in Los Angeles. The man, who had been a guide in Yellowstone Park 35 years, punched cattle with Buffalo Bill and had many exciting experiences in the days of the old West, died eating an ice cream cone.

Matteo Sandona, portrait painter, and formerly instructor in the local Arts and Crafts summer school, has created some interest in artistic and architectural circles in San Francisco by transforming a rambling old house on Buena Vista avenue into an Italian villa housing four families, and each one with a home as complete as if it were detached. The house is built on a steep slope and illustrates what may be done with the old rambling houses built in an age where neither beauty nor practical conveniences were considered. The place is called Villa Il Cipresso.

James Redfern Mason is still in Ireland. At frequent intervals Carmel friends of the music critic receive long and interesting letters concerning his doings and the notables whom he has met. Here's an interesting bit: "The flag which flies over the Four Courts is Ireland's not England's, and, when I reached Dublin Castle, it thrilled me through and through to think that ancient home of foreign officialdom was now in the hands of Erin's sons."

Word has come from the Silvas who have been summering in Versailles. They recently had a wonderful trip through England and Scotland, and aviated back to Paris "The old sports," say you. Mr. Silva writes that never again will he attempt to paint clouds, for he knows now that they're rocks. Several of his pictures recently received honorable mention at the Salon des Artistes. He has sold a number of them. Mrs. Silva had an exciting experience while going from Versailles to Paris. A street car strike occurred on the way, and amidst much gesticulation and uproar the trolley-rod was captured. The only consequence to Mrs. Silva was that she was obliged to walk back to Versailles. They expect to winter in Paris and return home in the spring.

This season he built a most attractive studio here on north Monte Verde street, and has spent most of his time sketching. As a result he takes back to Oregon forty water-colors and twenty oils. His favorite subjects are the views from the Seventeen-Mile Drive, the Highlands coast and the Carmel Valley.

Mrs. Susan Creighton Porter leaves this evening from Santa Barbara for a three weeks' trip to the Arizona desert through the Navajo country and the Hopi Indian pueblos. In the party will be her cousins, Dr. Allan and Dr. Marian Williams of Santa Barbara, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Youmans of Chicago, and Fernand Lundgren, the desert painter. The latter knows the desert country thoroughly, having been initiated into one of the Indian tribes and lived for years among them. The party may be fortunate enough to witness some of the ceremonial dances. Edward Youmans is the author of some celebrated educational articles appearing during the last four years in the Atlantic. Last year he published a book entitled "Shackled Youth," which brought forth much favorable comment.

the vacancy. At this election the people of Carmel may, if they wish, elect William L. Maxwell, or they may elect another candidate.

Since the Special meeting two possible successors to Mr. Maxwell have been approached by the Board of Trustees, it being understood that Mr. Maxwell was ready at any time to resign IF HE APPROVED his successor. One man, unanimously agreed upon by the board, entertained a just doubt that the board could legally appoint anyone to fill the vacancy, after the thirty days in which the board could have appointed a trustee to fill the vacancy had elapsed. For this and other reasons, he declined, and has expressed himself in favor of calling a special election to set the doubt at rest.

All of this the people of Carmel know; and they also know that when this special meeting was protested by Trustees Kibbler and Reardon at the meeting of the board on September 5th, the minutes of this special meeting were approved only by the majority made possible by Trustee Maxwell's vote.

It is this majority which Mr. Newberry is unwilling to risk by calling a special election of the people of Carmel to decide the question of the legality of the board and to remove all doubt upon the point.

The citizens of Carmel do not want a one man board no matter who is at the head of it. They have suffered from this struggle for supremacy upon the board long enough. Gentlemen! resignations are in order. We have faith to believe that if the present board cannot see its way to a fair and speedy settlement of this question, and if it does not, within a reasonable period of time, move to establish its own legal status, the citizens of Carmel will know what to do.

Mr. Newberry says that we need not be anxious. He tells us that he and Trustee Maxwell were elected on a no-improvement platform—that while he remains upon the board there will be no bonds sold and no improvement undertaken to bring the legality of the board in question.

We reply that this is all aside from the point. The citizens of Carmel have a right to a board of trustees whose legality is beyond question, and Mr. Newberry himself admits that the situation should be cleared up. Both he and Mr. Campbell, the city attorney, have expressed the hope that the property holders would take the matter into court.

After you, Gentlemen! The mistake is yours. You have a perfectly clear and fair way to remedy that mistake. Why then should we take the matter into court? A suit in the superior court would cost the property holders at least three hundred dollars. If appealed it would cost as much a second time. Of course THE CITY pays the costs of defending such a suit including a fee to the city attorney, which would probably equal that paid by the property holders to their attorney, and that fee would be two hundred and fifty dollars, not including court costs, which would also fall upon the taxpayers. We have to remind you once more, that we, the taxpayers ARE THE CITY.

If, as trustees, you will face the necessity of going into court with a questionable board, perhaps it will appear that when a mistake such as this of rendering the legality of the board subject to question is persisted in long enough, someone besides the taxpayer is liable for the expense of such suit. You may come to a place where the taxpayers will repudiate the bills.

Good Golf Played at Pebble Beach Links

The recent golf tournament at Pebble Beach held several spectacular features. Jack Neville of San Francisco and formerly manager of the Pebble Beach properties, played Fred Wright of Los Angeles, the "Hope of the South," for the semi-finals. In the morning he was once five down to right. In the afternoon going to the eighth hole he was four down. Being three down and two to play he won the last three holes to win the match. The most interesting thing in the entire match was that in the was never once up until the thirty-thirty-sixth hole contest, the winner sixth hole had been played. Neville later played and won the finals from Bob Hunter.

Mrs. W. C. Van Antwerp of Pebble Beach was three up and four to go, when Mrs. Robert Roos won the last four holes to win the match. In the finals Miss Mary K. Browne defeated Doreen Cavanaugh, the state champion, in the most interesting and closely fought contest in the tournament.

Hotel News Hands John J. Joyful Jolly

Keeler's Hotel Weekly came out last week with a large front page picture of Pine Inn and a regular boost for its genial owner, John B. Jordan. In a lengthy article, they say:

"Mr. Jordan is one of the best known and liked members of the Northern California Hotel Association. For many years he operated hotels in Oakland and during the war was the general manager of the large hotel at Clyde where the ships were built. He is also a property owner, having several valuable down-town parcels of income real estate in Oakland. * * * Mr. Jordan is a splendid, upright, high-principled gentleman, and is respected as a real asset to any community in which he might be located. * * * His rare good judgment is shown to advantage at his Pine Inn which has been so highly improved in but a short few months' time."

We say so too.

Emeralds Among Aztec Treasures.

Among the Aztec treasures of Mexico exquisite cut emeralds were found, and it is from this source that the magnificent emeralds now forming a part of the royal collection of Spain are supposed to have come.

Who Will Remember

By Charles Coop

Some element escapes, some facts will keep
No obvious time with formal reasoning,
Some parts will not stay put—and some mad sheep
Will stray the safe old flock at wind of spring.

So, in a year, as like, a straw may fall
Across my course, and turn me cast or west
To chase cloud shadows: well, fate governs all
And I must pay my dues before I rest.

But if I wander far I'll not forget
Those green republicans, the pine and oak
Who passed me in their most exclusive set—
I was no stranger to that quiet folk.

And when I [illegible] the hill above Carmel
For one last look at town, and shore, and sea,
I know what friends will answer my farewell,
And what companions will remember me.

REVIEW OF BOOKS IN CARMEL LIBRARY

By Ann Burroughs

THE GLIMPSES OF THE MOON—EDITH WHARTON

Mrs. Wharton's latest novel is the story of two adventurous but impecunious young Americans who exist as hangers-on of wealthy cosmopolitan friends. Their experiment of advancing their positions and their opportunities for a good time by a temporary marriage and the combining thereby of their forces is the inspiration of the novel. The difficulties arising from an adjustment of a growth of real affection between them amid the artificialities and intrigues of their acquaintances and benefactors, furnish the incidents of the plot. The solution of the dilemma though wholesome lacks freshness.

As a novel, the book does not rate high. As a work of art, it is interesting as the product of so finished a craftsman as Mrs. Wharton. Her characters move livingly and the kaleidoscope of her background is colorfully drawn and carefully fitted together.

FAIRY TALES DRAMATIZED

"New Plays from Old Tales," by Harriet S. Wright are dramatizations of eight time-honored stories adapted for the use of boys and girls, yet retaining enough of the text of the originals to suggest their beauty.

The story of Aucassin and Nicolette is taken from the rich and lovely version of a mediaeval mistrel. "The Birthday of the Infanta" follows Oscar Wilde's story. "The Princess Who Hid Her Shoes" is a delightful Swedish fairy tale. "Tamlane" is a Halloween play suggested by an old ballad. "Pilgrim's Progress" appears in two parts. Bunyan's own poetry telling the tale of the adventures of Christian and his friends and helpers. Poe's "Three Sundays in a Week" and Hawthorne's fantastic "Feathertop" are included in the volume as well as a delightful plantation skit adapted from one of Louise-Clarke Prynelle's stories.

As Miss Wright has been careful to preserve the fine literary values of the originals from which the plays have been taken, so she has taken care to suggest lovely though simple staging and costuming. There are references quoted both for a study of the spirit of the period in which the play is set and for the type of costuming needed, and inexpensive and practical ways of making the costumes.

A more perfect volume for juvenile amateurs one cannot imagine.

OH, SALINAS, WHY DUST?

From a recent issue of the Salinas Index it appears that our brother editor has forgotten the days when he was young. He does not believe in fairies any more; he is too old to play. To him the dust of his flat paved street is nothing but grit. He must be color blind—or even in Salinas it might strike him otherwise when the evening wind whirls it at sunset in a golden shower past his dingy office windows. No latter-day Ruskin need ever expect him to review the three volumes of fantastic treasure, which even he—if he could let himself—might entitle the "Stones of Salinas."

Our good editor seems alarmed at the condition of "literachure" at this end of the Peninsula. He quotes our prose-poem, "The Dust of Carmel," the author of which, by the way, is a gentleman, a scholar, and a contributor to some of the leading scientific and literary magazines of the world, and delivers an impassioned plea to all the "enlightened ones" to make it clear. We'd advise our Salinas friend to cease striving and go back to his telegraphic reports and boiler plate. When he runs across some more real poetry, it might be well to add to his "hour of unwashed illiteracy" by using it for its soporific qualities—as he would morphine. Then what's the matter with making it into the form of a pellet and eating it—getting it through the process of absorption as it were.

As he passes like Enoch from our ken—to be transplanted as we hope he will into a brighter world—he will not look back at the splendor of the evening star he leaves behind him, to see that even the reflection from his editorial roof adds a mite of lustre to his planet in the Martian skies. He cannot even imagine when he misses. That is his tragedy—not ours.

ART KNOWS NO NATIONALITY

It is encouraging to learn that when fifty prominent French painters and sculptors were asked whether German and Austrian artists should be permitted to exhibit in Paris, only one man replied in the negative. That is a vote of 49 to 1 in favor of civilization, which is not so bad.

If artists and scientists cannot be international, there is little hope for the rest of us. A great work of art, a great scientific fact, is beyond the petty boundaries of nationalism; it lies out somewhere in the Milky Way, and all the stars shine around it. It is good indeed to know that some people upon our dirty little speck of a planet realize this.—San Jose Daily News.

A Popular Merger

The marriage of Miss Eleanor L. Hicks and George H. Mullnix takes place next Sunday afternoon, September 24, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Waldo Hicks, in this city.

Rev. P. J. Barker of Pacific Grove, an old friend of the Hicks, will tie the knot. Miss Helen Hicks will be bridesmaid and Albert Mullnix best man. The honeymoon will be spent at Nevada City.

A shower was tendered Miss Hicks last Monday evening at Arts and Crafts hall. About forty were present. After admiring the large number of gifts, an orchestra furnished music for a merry dance.

Only a Few More Jumps to the Top

The mercury in the Soldier Memorial Thermometer, still warmed by the human heart, has ascended several degrees this week. Dr. J. N. Bishop donated $10, and Freeman Horn, in gratitude to the people of Carmel for the respect shown to his mother's memory, subscribed $20, bringing our grand total up to $814.96. This leaves but $185 to be raised to make the $1000 which the committee says is needed.

David Gally, with an aggregation of Carmel dramatic talent, will give a performance consisting of three one-act plays shortly, the exact date of which will be announced next week, and fifty per cent of the net proceeds will go to this fund.

The plays to be produced are: "Fancy Free," by Stanley Houghton; "The Tenor," by Frank Wedekind; and "The Baby Carriage," by Bosworth Crocker. The last named was originally produced by the Provincetown Players.

Globe Trotter Selects Carmel as the Fairest Spot on Earth

Miss Nora Roche of Fort Worth, Tex., has been the guest of Mrs. L. A. Shipley. Miss Roche's father was the builder of all the railroads leading into Fort Worth and her uncle was the founder of the Press Club of New York. A letter received from Miss Roche states: "Have looked at mountains, lake, rivers, straits, the ocean—have taken varied drives without end (it seemed to me), but I still believe Carmel has more beauty than any other place I know of, and I shall work toward one end—to return there."

Facts About Bees.

A Belgian scientist found that a bee, weight for weight, is thirty times as strong as a horse. The female bee has a set of waistcoat pockets. When she is engaged in making the cells of the honeycomb, tiny flakes of wax are secreted in these little pouches, from which they are removed by her with her jaws, as needed.

"De man dat sniff talk is cheap," remarked Uncle Eben, "done fohgot dat time is money."

Special Meeting to Discuss Theater

A meeting of subscribers, members and shareholders of the Carmel Club of Arts and Crafts will be held at the clubhouse next Monday night to take action upon the report of the special committee upon the proposed Little Theater and its management. It is important that every member be present.

This notice would seem to deny the report in a Monterey paper that the Little Theater project had been given up for the winter. In fact, with a thousand dollars already subscribed and a donation of five hundred dollars from Mrs. Ralph C. Harrison, and with the many talented people here who are interested in dramatics, it would seem to be a propitious time for its start.

It is hoped that steps can be taken immediately to adopt plans and commence work on the building. When the sound of hammer and saw is heard in Carmel, we may be sure the completion of the theater building will come in.

LATE ITEMS

Mr. and Mrs. Munro Montgomery and daughter Elizabeth Jane of Los Angeles, were recent guests of Mrs. Lotta A. Shipley.

Glenn Hughes, one time Forest Theater coach, is registered at Pine Inn. He is at present dramatic director in the University of Washington, a position similar to that occupied by Gordon Davis at Stanford last year and by Richard Bentinck, his successor, this year. Hughes has published several collections of his poems.

Committee of Fifteen Censored by Mayor

By PERRY NEWBERRY

A Committee of fifteen, of which C. H. Yates is chairman and Maud I Hogle is secretary, claiming to represent about 120 resident and non resident property owners, is making some suggestsons to the people of Carmel and to its board of trustees. I question the good taste of selecting a defeated candidate for trustee as chairman, and the good judgment of making a real estate agent its secretary. However, that has been done, and I will only remark in passing that any suggestions made to me as trustee by the committee will be under suspicion either of an attempt to sway my actions toward the things which a majority of the voters of Carmel determined were not desirable, or of trying to secure my aid to boost the price of real estate.

I am sorry ... interested by this new movement. It is based upon a desire to make Carmel a "city." It is fostered by real estate boomers who have land or houses to sell. It will contain the names of all the promoters in town. It will stand for new city halls, concreted streets, drainage systems and the things you rejected not six months ago, It will boost for bond issues. special assessments, increased assessed valuations, and more expenses of city government. It will attempt to make your total tax rate, now $4.47 a hundred—too big as it stands—twice as much. If you lend your name to this movement, at least know just what you are joining. Do not be m s'ed by phrases.

After the decisive vote of April 11 last the boosters of Carmel were for a long time silent. Then they saw opportunity in the absence of Captain W. L. Maxwell from the state to secure the appointment to the board of trustees of one of the candidates defeated at the election. They gave no consideration to the fact that Captain Maxwell had been granted, by unanimous consent of the board, ninety days' absence from the city; that he returned in sixty-eight days; that there was no damage by his absence to the city business; that he had been called away to serve the U. S. government; or that he had been elected, not five months previously, by the biggest vote ever polled in Carmel, at the head of the ticket. All they saw was the chance to put in his place a booster.

Their suggestion that he now resign to allow a special election to fill his place is not only an insult to Captain Maxwell, but to every man or woman in Carmel who helped to make up his majority.

These promoters know that the law provides a method of determining the wishes of the electors by a recall. If Captain Maxwell has in any way failed in his duties as trustee, the voters of Carmel can substitute another in his place at the polls.

The suggestion of this committee of fifteen that he take the initiative and desert the people who elected him shows a poor sense of humor and a serious lack of common sense.

Again I warn the people of Carmel to beware the boosters, promoters and real estate speculators; be careful what you join and what petitions you sign. Look deep for the motives underneath apparently innocent projects. Be certain you know all the facts. Do not allow yourself to be stampeded by talk.

Fault of Pacific Ocean.

As far as the extent of the Pacific goes, its immensity is a drawback to its commerce. If it were half as wide it would carry a much heavier tonnage. If its shores were half as far apart the nations that face its great expanse would be more neighborly and would trade more extensively among themselves. Freights would be lower and passenger fares would cost less.

Chance for Local Playwrights

A group of playwrights and newspaper men of New York City are starting a Punch and Judy theater on West 49th street, to be opened on November 6. Those interested in the project call themselves the Triangle and intend to present a miscellaneous kaleidoscopic entertainment of small ballets, sketches, songs, pantomimes, etc. They want serious, satiric, whimsical matter—matter that has outright travesty or burlesque if it has intelligent sophistication behind it.

Directors are George S. Kauffman and Mark Connelly, authors of "Dulcie" and "To the Ladies." George C. Tyler is managing. Budding playwrights need not feel lonesome with such writers as George Ade, Eugene O'Neill, Booth Tarkington and Harry Leon Wilson on the staff of contributors.

New Weapon Against Mice.

A way to kill mice (without cats) has been discovered in Australia. A powder ... is mixed ... kling wheat with it and fastening hungry mice in the bins; mice died without eating the grain.
